

Zeta Papandreou

Adjunct lecturer in the Department of Primary Education in the University of the Aegean.

Zeta Papandreou has a doctorate in history didactics and teaches Contemporary History – History Didactics and Public History in the University of the Aegean. She is also doing post doctorate research in the National Technical University of Athens, Department of Architecture - School of Engineering. Her research interests include teaching of traumatic historical events (WW II and the German occupation of Greece), as well as the theoretical backbone of History Didactics. She has focused on development of History Curricula for Elementary and High school education and projects aimed to educate and sensitize students of all 12 grades on issues related to the post WWI Civil War in Greece as well as immigration and refugees. Her publications include: Zeta Papandreou, Traumatic Memory and Public History: Distomo 1944 – 2018, Taxideftis 2018, “The “naked life” of women political prisoners” in the collective volume: G. Kokkinos and D. Mavroskoufis (editors), Trauma, conflicts and interpretive controversies in history education, Taxideftis 2018.